Document Level Sentiment Analysis from News Articles [1]

Case Study presented by:

Abstract

- Huge amount data generated on the internet; important to extract information. Data mining techniques used to solve diverse types of problems.

- In the era of News and blogs, there is need to extract news and need to analyze to determine opinion of that news reviews.

- Sentiment analysis finds an opinion i.e. positive or negative about particular subject. Negation is a very common morphological creation that affects polarity and therefore, needs to be taken into reflection in sentiment analysis.

- Proposed system uses online news databases from one resources namely BBC news. Three subtasks executed: categorizing the objective, separation of good and bad news content, data cleaning to get only what is required for analysis, steps like tokenization, stop word removal etc.

Introduction

Sentiment analysis

- Application of Computational Linguistics and Natural Language Processing which deals with the extraction of subjective information from text

- Used to determine the contextual polarity of a source of written or spoken media

- Data sources include texts, tweets, blogs, social media, news articles, product comments and reviews etc.

Levels of sentiment analysis

- Document level

- Sentence level

- Entity and aspect level

Proposed Approach

Dataset used

The BBC news dataset [2] was used in this paper, which included articles between 2014 - 2015 in the .txt format.

It contains 2225 documents which were split into 1490 articles for training and 735 articles for testing.

The categorical division of articles was as follows:

Category	No. of articles
Business	510
Entertainment	401
Politics	417
Sports	511
Tech	401

Pre-processing

Online data may contain irrelevant text such as HTML tags, scripts and advertisements

Pre-processing helps to clean the data, increase data sparsity and shrink the feature space

In this paper, pre-processing includes:

- removal of website URLs, hyperlinks, stop words, punctuation

- stripping of white spaces and numbers

Stemming and Lemmatization

Reducing a word to its word-stem or its root (known as lemma)

An example from this paper is:

'The politician's party is divided' → 'politician party be divide'

Word	Stemming
information	inform
informative	inform
computers	comput
feet	feet

Word	Lemmatization
information	information
informative	informative
computers	computer
feet	foot

Term Document Matrix (TDM) Generation

A Term Document Matrix describes the frequency of terms occurring in the processed dataset.

Rows = relevant terms
Columns = articles in the corpus
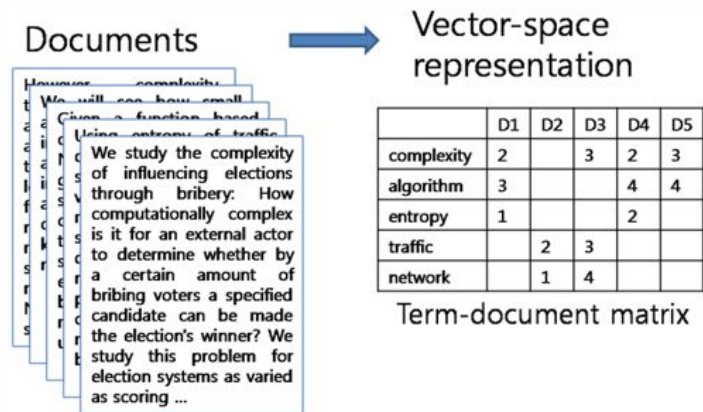

Thus, an entry (i, j) in a TDM represents the frequency of term i in article j

Sentiment Analysis

The paper used lexicon-based sentiment analysis; VADER [3] used to assign polarity between -4 and 4 to each word as follows:

Strongly negative		Slightly negative	Neutral		Slightly positive	Strongly positive
-4	-3	-2	-1	0	1	2	3	4

The average of polarities in an article determined the overall sentiment associated with the article.

Results

Table 1: Sentiment analysis of documents

Sr. No	Name of Category	Total	Positive	Negative	Neutral
1	Business	510	262	214	34
2	Entertainment	401	136	244	21
3	Politics	417	210	190	17
4	Sport	511	151	327	33
5	Tech	401	136	244	21

Table 1 shows a categorical breakdown of articles along with the overall sentiments (positive, negative or neutral) associated with the article.

The proposed system applies a sentiment score function to the document based on the analysis of individual sentences.

Conclusion and Disadvantages of the Proposed System

The Entertainment and Tech categories have an equal number of articles; their polarity distribution is also the same with a higher number of negative articles as compared to positive articles.

On the other hand, the Business and Sport categories also have an equal number of categories but polarities displayed across these categories are very different. Business articles show positive polarity while sports articles have a strong negative polarity.

However, these results may not be an accurate representation of document-level polarities for the following reasons:

- The proposed system is too simple to deal with complexities of language within news articles such as word ambiguities or negations

- Some of the articles show multipolarity i.e. the author displays a variety of opinions across a sentence which makes it difficult to accurately categorise sentences and in turn article

- The proposed system takes words at face value instead of adding context and gives poor results for articles containing sarcasm or irony

Potential Solutions to Disadvantages

Word ambiguities

Three common ambiguities are lexical, semantic and syntactic ambiguity.

Solutions:
- Part of Speech (POS) tagging
- Word embedding generation (Word2Vec, GloVe, Context2Vec etc.)
- Sense semantic relations between words by using a model like WordNet

Negations

Negations in sentences may affect sentence polarity based on kind of negation and context of use.

Solutions [4]:
- Heuristics based on Part of Speech (POS) where negation appears
- Analyse negations in conjugations and define exceptions where negations to not affect the sentence
- Take diminishers and morphological negators into consideration

Multipolarity

Multipolarity is when the text of interest contains varying sentiment, which may lead to a confusing overall sentiment of the text.

Solution:
- Determine words of interest at a sentence level and decide polarities associated with them; apply the Chi square test to understand level of multipolarity [5]

Sarcasm

Solutions:
- Use word embeddings to find sentiment incongruity [6] (usually a good determiner for sarcasm)
  For e.g. 'I love dying in this game!' is sarcastic despite the word love have strongly positive polarity

- Take numerical sarcasm into consideration [7] and compare it with adjectives or descriptors in the sentence
  For e.g 'He drove so slowly, only 100 km/hr' shows a clear contradiction between the numerical value and the adjective slow

Advantages and Applications of the Proposed System

The advantages of the proposed system are as follows:

- Application of pre-processing before the analysis stage transforms data into a more digestible form for determining polarity and associated sentiments

- Multivariate analysis of the generated Term Document Matrix reveals main themes and topics which help with accurate sentiment analysis

- Use of VADER allowed the authors to quantify how positive or negative a sentiment is; it also helped them incorporate slang and colloquial aspects of language

The potential applications of the proposed system are as follows:

- Understand topics and sentiments which are preferred by readers by correlating trends in in news articles in various categories with their associated sentiments

- Decide whether an article has any bias from the author's side, especially in case of political or controversial topics (can be achieved by modifying the polarity association)

Dataset Generation

The scraped data is converted into a Pandas dataframe with the following columns:

- Headline: first line of the extracted data

- Article_text: remaining lines

- Source: extracted from .txt file name

- Bias: based on inherent bias of the source

- Cleaned_text: stores result of data preprocessing

```python
df = pd.DataFrame(columns=['headline', 'article_text', 'source','bias', 'cleaned_text', 'compound', 'positive', 'neutral','negative'])

headline = []
article_text = [] source = [] bias = []

    try:
      with open(f'{j}/{j}_{i}.txt', 'r') as f:
        # read first line as headline
        head = f.readline()
        head = head.strip()
        headline.append(head)

        # read all other lines as the article body, join to convert list to string

Data Preprocessing and Cleaning

1. Converting string from mixed case to entirely lower case

2. Replacing all numbers, punctuations, emojis and whitespaces with a blank space

3. Removing all the stopwords as per NLTK's ENGLISH_STOP_WORDS corpus

4. Lemmatizing the data using the WordNet Lemmatizer model

function for cleaning the data, remove tweet text, ads etc.

Home Minister Amit Shah discussed the security situation in Kashmir at a high-level meeting.Srinagar: Delimitation in Jammu and Kashmir will be followed by elections and restoration of statehood, Union Home Minister Amit Shah said on Saturday as he visited the Valley for the first time since Article 370 was revoked two years ago."Why should we stop delimitation? Nothing is going to stop. After delimitation, there will be elections and then restoration of statehood," Mr Shah said in an address to members of youth clubs in Srinagar.Earlier this year, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Shah met representatives of Kashmir's political parties in Delhi. Following the meeting, both Mr Modi and Mr Shah had stressed that delimitation should be completed at the earliest so that steps to restore statehood can be taken.The Union Home Minister's visit to the Valley comes at a time when the centre faces a major security challenge in the wake of targeted civilian killings that triggered an exodus of migrant labourers and Kashmiri Pandits. The visit also comes amid the ongoing anti-terror operation in Poonch that has claimed the lives of nine soldiers, including two officers.Earlier on Saturday, Mr Shah discussed the security situation at a high-level meeting.In his address to members of youth clubs, Mr Shah said the revocation of Article 370 is "irreversible".Defending the communication blockade and curfew following the August 5, 2019 move to revoke Article 370, Mr Shah said they were a "bitter pill" meant to save lives.Kashmir was under curfew for months and witnessed the world's longest internet shutdown after the revocation of Article 370. "There was a lot of criticism about why there is curfew, why there is internet shutdown. I will answer. First I want to ask a question. For 70 years, three families ruled here. Why were 40,000 people killed in Kashmir? Do you have an answer?""During that time [when Article 370 was revoked], they tried to incite people. A conspiracy was hatched, some foreign powers were part of it. How many fathers would have shouldered coffins of their young sons if we had not imposed a curfew. Who was saved by imposing the curfew? The youth of Kashmir was saved."The Home Minister said the abrogation of special status changed Kashmir's narrative from terrorism to development."Two years ago, news from Kashmir was about terrorism and stone-pelting. Today it's development, education, skill development, youth engagement," he said.Mr Shah said he is visiting Kashmir to "forge a friendship with the youth of Kashmir". "Join hands with Modi ji and the Government of India and become partners in the journey to take Kashmir forward," he said, adding that the youth in the Valley must take advantage of various opportunities being created by the administration for their progress."Make democracy stronger here, let the youth respond to the elements who try to make people go astray," he said. Extensive security arrangements have been made in view of the Home Minister's three-day visit.Instead prior to his visit 700 civilians were detained, booked under PSA & many shifted to jails outside Kashmir. Such oppressive steps further vitiate an already tense atmosphere. 'Normalcy acrobatics' are in full swing while reality is denied & obfuscated.— Mehbooba Mufti (@MehboobaMufti) October 23, 2021PDP chief and former Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti alleged that 700 civilians had been detained and charged under the Public Security Act ahead of the Home Minister's visit. "'Normalcy acrobatics' are in full swing while reality is denied & obfuscated," she tweeted.

Method used: Isolation Forest, which uses decision trees, with partitions created by:
- randomly selecting a feature
- selecting a random split value between min and max values of the selected feature

Outliers are less frequent than regular observations + are different in terms of values ∴ they should ideally be identified close to the tree root with fewer splits.

Contamination = number of anomalous observations / number of normal observations

Advantages and Disadvantages

Advantages

- With our project, it is possible to detect outlying biases that media centers usually don't hold. This helps us to know whether a single reporter is trying to either defame the situation or make it look good.

- On a larger scale, this project can help determine news sources' type of bias.

Disadvantages

- Due to constraints of news sources, only one keyword is allowed. This makes narrowing down the event much difficult.

- Due to frequent activity, some website block the IP address for a limited time, rendering the system useless for that particular 'wing'. This has only been seen for "OPIndia" website.

Future Scope

- Accommodation for more than one keyword for the news extraction; this would help better narrow the event hence giving more accurate results.

- Addition of more news sources which would more inclusively represent all biases; this gives us much more data to work with

- Researching and finding better sentiment analysis methods than VADER; getting more parameters will help better clarify the anomalies.

- Performing topic modelling using methods such as Latent Dirichlet Allocation to correlate the topics found in the article with the article being an anomaly.
